

NEW POLL ONLINE: From Baby J's to Big Oil

2009-08-07 15:59:59

The Log recently asked if the city should shut down Baby J's.

Of almost 400 respondents, 61 percent said yes. The vast majority added that if they don't meet safety codes they shouldn't be open. Others argued that the restaurant had been warned and it was unfair to other restaurants to let Baby J's slide.

About 36 percent said the attempt by the city amounted to a personal vendetta that would make employees suffer. Many in the no camp also thought Baby J's was "too good to fail." About 3 percent didn't care.

Now The Log wants to know what you think about drilling 10 miles off Destin's shore. Answer at the right hand side of the page.